Synopsis In one of the more complex Bond plots, Octopussy centres around two villains - General Orlov and Kamal Khan - who are working together to achieve their respective goals. When a stolen Faberge egg turns up on the body of a murdered MI6 agent, Bond is sent to discover where the egg came from and how MI6 came to be involved. Eventually, Bond uncovers an attempt to derail the nuclear disarmament process by detonating a nuclear warhead on a US base in West Germany. Orlov is stealing priceless Russian-owned jewellery, which Kamal is having counterfeited to disguise the theft. Kamal gets to keep the original jewellery in exchange for using one of his associates, a famous gem smuggler and circus owner, Octopussy, unwittingly to carry the bomb into the West. Bond ultimately teams up with Octopussy, and is assisted by a crocodile submarine and an acid filled fountain pen.
