Synopsis

Once more, Bond is sent to track down Blofeld and SPECTRE, who are hidden away in an allergy clinic in the Swiss alps plotting to release a bacteria in key cities across the world that will induce infertility in crops, animals and humans. In an effort to infiltrate SPECTRE, Bond poses as Sir Hilary Bray from the Royal College of Heraldry, and is invited to stay at the allergy clinic where he begins to unravel the details of the scheme. Perhaps more importantly than all this, OHMSS is the film in which James Bond falls in love with, and marries, Tracy. In a pivotal moment for the Bond canon, Blofeld kills Tracy at the end of the film, leaving Bond alone and distraught. Many references are made to this event in subsequent films.
